

Firstly, it was somebody to listen – I could cry at last. Later, I needed someone to give me more direction and ideas for the future.

~ A client saying what was most important about the time spent with the counsellor.

She (the counsellor) asked me what helps me when I have troubles, and I said I read the bible and pray and go to church and that calms my heart and I showed her the verses and she respected that. She was interested in that and that it helps me. About my culture-I know she respects me and my culture but it is hard to say how I know this. She just does. There is no disrespect or discrimination on her part. She respects me, receives me well. She doesn't say anything to hurt me.

~ A client talking about how the counsellor respected the client's religious beliefs and culture.
